THE LABOR PROBLEM.

President Cleveland Gives His Views at Length.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.
WASHINGTON, April 23.—The president yesterday sent the following message to congress on the labor troubles:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: I am so deeply impressed with the importance of thoughtfully meeting the problem which recent events and the present condition have thrust upon us, involving the settlement of the disputes arising between our laboring men and their employers, that I am constrained to recommend to congress legislation upon this serious and pressing subject. Under our form of government the value of labor as an element of national prosperity should be distinctly recognized and the welfare of the laboring man should be regarded as especially entitled to legislative care, in a country which offers to all its citizens the attainment of the highest social and political distinction. Bearing in his hand an indispensable contribution to our growth and progress, the laboring man may well insist, with manly courage and as his right, upon the same recognition from our laws as is accorded to any other citizen. Having a valuable interest in charge his reasonable demands should be met in such a spirit of reconciliation and fairness, as shall produce a contented and patriotic co-operation in the achievement of a grand national destiny. While the interests of labor are not promoted by a resort to threats and violent manifestations and while those who, under the pretext of an advocacy of the claims of labor, wantonly attack the rights of capital and for reckless purposes, or the love of disorder sow the seeds of discontent, should be quelled, all legislation should be calm.

The present condition of the relations between labor and capital are far from satisfactory. This discontent is due, in a large degree, to the grasping, heedless action of the employers and the alleged discrimination in favor of capital as an object of government protection. It is also conceded that the laboring men are not always careful to avoid careless and unjustifiable disturbances. Though the importance of better accord between these interests is apparent, we must bear in mind that any effort by the federal government must be greatly limited by constitutional restrictions. There are many grievances which legislation by congress cannot redress and many conditions which cannot by such means be reformed.

While something may be done under federal authority to prevent the disturbances which so often arise from disputes between employers and employed, while at times seriously threaten the business interests of the country, in my opinion the proper theory upon which to proceed is that voluntary arbitration is the best means of settling these difficulties. I suggest that impartial arbitrators chosen in the heat of conflicting claims there be created a commission of labor consisting of three members, who shall be regular officers of the government, charged, among other duties, with the consideration and settlement, when possible, of controversies between employer and employee. Its members, as they gain experience would steadily improve in their ability to deal intelligently and usefully with the questions which might be submitted to them. If arbitrators are chosen for temporary services in each case of dispute which arises, experience and familiarity with much that is involved in the questions, will be lacking. Extreme partisanship and bias will be the qualifications sought on either side and frequent complaints of unfairness and partiality will be inevitable. The devolving of this duty upon a federal court, is at least of doubtful propriety. The establishment of a federal authority of such a bureau would be a just and sensible recognition of the value of labor and of its right to be represented in the departments of the government. So far as its conciliatory offices had relation to disturbances which interfered with transit and commerce, between the states its existence would be justified under the provisions of the constitution, which gives to congress the power to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states. In the frequent disputes between laboring men and their employers, the consequence of which are confined within state limits and threatened domestic violence, the interposition of such a commission, might be tendered upon the application of the legislature or executive of a state, under the constitutional provision which requires the general government to "protect" each of the states "against domestic violence." If such a commission were fairly organized the risk of a loss of popular support and sympathy resulting from a refusal to submit to such an instrumentality would constrain both parties to such disputes, to invoke interference and abide by its decisions. There would also be good reason to hope that the very existence of such a body would invite application to it for advice and counsel frequently resulting in the avoidance of contention and misunderstanding.

If the usefulness of such a commission is doubtful, because it might lack power to enforce its decisions, much encouragement is derived from the conceded good that has been accomplished by the railroad commissions which have been organized and which, having little more than advisory power, have exerted a most salutary influence in the settlement of disputes between conflicting interests.

In July, 1884, by a law of congress, a bureau of labor was established and placed in charge of a committee of labor of whom it is required to "collect information on the subject of labor, its relations to capital, the hours of labor, and the earnings of laboring men and women and the means of promoting their material, social and intellectual prosperity." The commission thus already organized might be utilized by the addition of two more commissioners and by supplementing the duties now imposed upon it, by giving such powers and functions as would permit the commissioners to act as arbitrators when necessary, between labor and capital, under such limitations and upon such occasions as should be deemed proper and useful. Power should also be distinctly conferred upon this bureau, to investigate the causes of all disputes as they occur, whether submitted or not for arbitration, so that information may always be at hand to aid legislation on the subject, when necessary and desirable.

GROVER CLEVELAND,
Executive Mansion, April 22, 1886.

SENATE.
WASHINGTON, April 23.—The senate committee on appropriations has today finished the consideration of the post-office appropriation bill. The only important amendments are the following: Forty thousand dollars are added to the appropriation for increasing special mail facilities to make connection with Cuba. The Frye amendment in substance is adopted, appropriating $800,000 for foreign mail service, and last year's provision that no more than $40,000 shall be used for the extension of free delivery service is readopted.

Among the confirmations yesterday was W. S. Rosecrans for register of the treasury.

HOUSE.
The house met and immediately went into committee of the whole, Wellborn, of Texas, in the chair, on the river and harbor appropriation bill.

For an hour the bill was considered, and some little progress made, and a few moments before noon the committee rose and the house adjourned.

The session of Friday was opened with prayer by the chaplain, and the president's message upon the labor troubles having been read by the clerk, Mr. Springer moved its reference to the committee on labor, with instructions that the committee report on it by bill or otherwise on or before May 15.

Mr. Hammond, of Georgia, thought there was no reason to believe the committee would not act diligently and it was unusual to instruct the committee on such matters. Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, moved to refer the message to a committee of the whole.

This gave rise to a short, but interesting discussion in which the message was warmly commended by Randall, of Pennsylvania; McCrory, of Kentucky; and others. It was finally referred to the committee on labor, with instructions to report on it on or before May 15.

The Disaster at Stry.
By Cable to THE SENTINEL.
VIENNA, April 23.—The municipal council of Stry has by imperial order been dissolved, upon a charge of culpable official negligence in having failed to provide the town with fire engines. The imperial and municipal committees inspected the buildings in the burned district. Rebuilding will be accomplished by means of a municipal loan guaranteed by the state.

Shot Himself.
By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.
TERRELL, Texas, April 23.—The grand lodge Knights of Pythias has been in session here since Wednesday morning. Yesterday morning, in the Harris hotel, W. Alexander Abney, the retiring grand chancellor of Texas, shot himself with a pistol, the ball entering his breast just left of his heart. It is uncertain whether it was accidental or suicide.

The "Poet Priest" Dead.
By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.
LOUISVILLE, April 23.—Father Abram Ryan, the "poet priest" died last night from brain fever.

GOOD FRIDAY.

The Anniversary of the Crucifixion of the Saviour and Its Memories.

This is a solemn day in the Lutheran church, and communicants of that belief suspend business to attend divine worship, consequently the stores of most every Lutheran were closed to-day.

In the Catholic church Good Friday reveals the church expressing in her whole office the deepest compunction and mourning over the death of the Saviour. The altars are bare, the crucifix is covered with a black veil till the prostration, and no masses said or sacrifices offered, except the holy communion. None receive the holy communion except the priestly celebrant of the office and the sick in danger of death. On Good Friday prayers are sent up for all stages of men in or out of the church. During the service in the morning, the crucifix, covered, is held up by a priest, who uncovers each of the wounds separately. The image is afterwards placed on a cushion outside the altar, when it receives the osculatory acts of reverence on the part of the faithful.

The last services preliminary to Easter are those of Holy Saturday. The most important, the blessing of the Paschal candle, emblem of the resurrected Christ, of the baptismal font and of the Easter water. The Paschal candle has five grains of frankincense, each grain representing a wound in the divine body. This candle consecration is generally performed by the deacon. The burial of the Lord and his descent into hell are the principal themes engaging the minds of the devout on this day, and present such a contrast to the joys of the day following as to impress the importance of the resurrection upon every worshiper. Anciently the church allowed no mass to be said on that day to impress the deep mourning for the loss of her divine spouse; at present, however, the office and mass of the resurrection which were formerly said at midnight are performed a little before noon.

THE FAR WEST.

Mr. John M. Hench and Thomas Crawford Write Gossipy Letters.

Mr. John M. Hench writes a member of THE SENTINEL staff from Melrose, Montana territory. John has been keeping books and practicing law there, but says he is going to locate at Great Falls, on the Missouri river and Canadian Pacific railroad. It is the coming town, he believes, and proposes to trust his shingle to the breeze there, notwithstanding he has been offered the city editorship of the Butte City Miner.

Mr. Hench writes that Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bulger, nee Miss Nellie Angel, live five miles from Melrose, and are prospering nicely. "I heard the other day," says Mr. Hench, "that a mine at Rochester, Montana, in which Mr. Bulger is interested, has developed a very rich 'lead' of silver and will make him a millionaire." John advises latent Fort Wayne capital to look out that way for good investments.

Mr. Thomas Crawford, who recently left this county, writes THE SENTINEL an interesting note, saying that he has staked off a claim in Thomas county, Kansas, near Oakley, his mail station. Mr. Crawford says claims are scarce, as people are constantly after them. Mr. Crawford adds: "I think western Kansas is as fine a looking country as I ever saw. Everything is booming here this spring. You can see the plows going in every direction. Last year there was no plowing done in the county to amount to anything. If Providence blesses us with rain here this year there will be a big crop in Thomas county. I was through five counties of western Kansas. The greatest trouble in this country is that so many poor people have claims and nothing else, but if they stick to it a few years they will all come out right."

Quite a delegation of taxpayers from the Second ward called on Mr. Dennis Monahan to-day, asking him to be a candidate for councilman from the Second ward. Mr. Monahan consents to make the race, and the people of the Second ward have reason to rejoice at this. Mr. Monahan is a representative citizen, one who has built himself up from a humble beginning, and is in sympathy with the best and most economical interests of the people. He will probably have no opposition.

Fred Hollenbeck, a popular man, and a good, agreeable officer, will resign his position as Wabash baggage master May 1. The company refuses to give him sufficient assistance.

TURNER!

by Approving President Cleveland's Message.

The Strikes Detailed at St. Louis, Chicago and Elsewhere Up to 4 O'Clock.

THE K. OF L.

Its Business is Detailed in a Readable Way.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—At to-day's session of the house select committee on the labor difficulties in the southwest, Frederick S. Turner, general secretary and treasurer of the Knights of Labor, was examined. He stated there were twenty-one district assemblies of Knights of Labor in the United States, with about 6,000 local assemblies. In these local assemblies there were from 1,000 to 3,000 members. The Knights of Labor had no political object and did not seek to influence legislation. He had known of no such movement on their part.

Mr. Parker handed to the witness a petition in favor of the unlimited coinage of the standard silver dollar, purporting to be signed by seven hundred local assemblies. Mr. Turner stated that he had never seen or heard of the petition before, but that the organization did not deny the right of any assembly to petition congress. It was not responsible as a body for the action of any particular assembly. This movement in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver was not a general movement of the Knights of Labor. Mr. Turner went on to describe the interview which he and his colleague, Bailey, had had with Hoxie in St. Louis. He said Hoxie's treatment of them was very commendable. Turner said the central lodge had no money to order the strike, but could approve or disapprove. This strike had never been approved. He presumed the Knights would not refuse the return to work if ordered to do so by the grand master. Being questioned on the subject of arbitration Turner said he had read the president's message on that point and thoroughly agreed with it. He believed there should be some fixed tribunal of arbitration, not one raised on the spur of the moment. He would like to see arbitration compulsory.

AFRAID OF LEAD.

A Bad Spot on the Wabash Road
Where Trains are Wrecked.

Roadmaster Houghton, of the Wabash road, has experienced some difficulty in securing men to patrol the track this side of Wabash, where attempts have been made to wreck passenger trains. Four patrolmen were engaged, but each resigned before spending one night on the road, alleging that they were afraid of being shot. The fifth man is plucky and now does duty regularly. Detective Potter, of the Wabash, went down there yesterday, expecting to arrest a man suspected of implication in the crime, but investigation satisfied the officer he was on the wrong trail, and nothing was done.

THE GRAND JURY.

The Indictments Returned and

George Platter, a Grand Rapids railroad employe, is wanted for kissing Mrs. Jim Weaver, who came here from Garrettsville to visit Mrs. Maxwell, on South Calhoun street. Platter invited Mrs. Weaver, who is his cousin, to supper last night, and en route to his home, near the east yards, he loved her in a robust way, in fact, she says he proceeded indecently further. In the struggle she lost her bracelets and Platter fled from the men who came to her rescue. She is an extraordinarily pretty woman, and Platter is missing.

The Eel River and Wabash railroads will be organized together, which makes the Indianapolis, Peru and Chicago of especial value to it.

It is estimated that a million acres will be submerged before the levee can be repaired.

He will have an examination to-day, and there are a number who doubt the verity of the charges.

STRONG STATEMENTS.

Rev. S. H. Troyer, of New Albany, Ind., states as follows how he saved himself from an attack which threatened serious results:

"On the 7th of June, 1884, I was taken with rheumatic fever, and for five weeks was not free from it. It then settled in my left foot, where it remained for about four weeks. Then it moved to my hips, shoulders, neck and collar bone, where it stayed until driven out by Athlophoros. Previous to the use of that remedy I had tried the skill of five physicians, from whom I obtained no relief. Then I resorted to the use of different remedies external and internal, but I continued to grow worse all the time until the 1st of October, when my druggist recommended Athlophoros. I had but little faith when I took the first bottle. At this time I was so helpless that my wife had to dress me, wash my face and assist me out of bed. I could not sleep more than from thirty to forty-five minutes at a time, so intense was my pain.

"My first dose of Athlophoros was taken at two o'clock in the afternoon, and I took two more soon after. The first dose gave me much relief, and the second eased me so greatly that I was enabled to talk freely and with comfort to my family and friends. The third dose enabled me to sleep four and a half hours without waking. I continued the use of Athlophoros until fourteen bottles in all had been taken. By this time my health was so much improved that I left off the medicine. That was in December, 1884, and I am now quite well."

Rev. Wm. Cool, of Denver, Ind., says: "I used only one bottle of Athlophoros, and I think it a good medicine. I consider that I derived much benefit from it."

"Athlophoros," says Mr. D. P. Sheets, of Mooresville, Ind., "gave me great satisfaction in a case of neuralgia, and I can heartily recommend it to others as doing all that is claimed for it."

Mr. J. A. Wilson, the photographer of New Albany, Ind., whose office is at Nos. 6 and 8 Main street, tells of one of these cases. His story follows:

"I had rheumatism but it disappeared after using only one bottle of Athlophoros. It was in my arms and I had sharp, shooting pains. I was suffering and complaining a good deal when a friend, coming into my gallery one morning, asked me what the trouble was. I said it was rheumatism. He told me of Athlophoros as a cure for neuralgia and rheumatism, and it struck me very forcibly, as it did not claim to cure every complaint that flesh is heir to. I bought a bottle on the strength of what he said. That was all I needed. I used the one bottle over six months ago, and have not had one ache or pain from rheumatism since."

Mr. Hiram F. Sides, of Fort Branch, Ind., says of his wife's cure: "Her suffering from neuralgia was intense, and we concluded to try Athlophoros. Almost from the first dose I could see that she was improving, and two bottles effected a permanent cure, so that she feels no effects of her once dreaded disease. I tried it for rheumatism and soon found relief, one bottle curing me. I shall take great pleasure in recommending Athlophoros to my neighbors."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

MISS THURSBY received the money for her memorial concert in New York one morning in a very novel way. She was invited to a breakfast by a number of ladies who had directed the concert, and an omelette was given her to serve. On cutting it she found that she really had before her the famous golden eggs, for the omelette was made of $20 gold pieces. A crust of cotton separated them from the real omelette above them. It was rather an opulent sort of breakfast dish, and was worth $2,300.

CAPT. H. TONYBEE has been making observations of rain-clouds and has come to the conclusion that clouds of less than 2,000 feet in thickness are not often accompanied by rain; and if they are it is only very gentle, consisting of minute drops. With a thickness of between 2,000 and 4,000 feet the size of the drops is moderate. As the thickness gets greater the size of the drops increases, and at the same time their temperature becomes lower, until, when the thickness is upward of 6,000 feet, hail is produced.

HERR FENNY, the famous Hungarian duelist, celebrated his thirty-fifth duel recently by a grand banquet. Nobody was admitted as a guest unless he had been at least six times "on the ground." Most of those present bore faces gashed and scarred from past encounters; some of them were lacking an eye, others were minus an ear. One French gentleman was conspicuous by the absence of his nose, which had been left years before on the field of honor by a cut from the sword of the late Austrian Prime Minister, Count Andrássy. The banquet was presided over by a professional beauty of Buda-Pesth, and was entitled "The banquet of the gentlemen without fear and without reproach."

THE Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette says: "Bill Lewis and Mrs. Maria Felix stood up before the minister at Edenton, in Clermont County, recently to be married, when the preacher said: 'If any man knows any good and sufficient reason why this couple should not be joined in the holy bonds of wedlock, let him speak now, or forever hold his peace.' Whereupon the prospective bride's uncle, Jerry Denight, stepped forward and said the show could not go on, as the brideabout-to-be didn't care a tinker's d— for Lewis. The parson was horrified, and immediately asked: 'Maria, do you not love this man?' to which the 'wider' responded: 'Nay, your reverence, I'll be blown if I do.' Had the preacher's house been struck by dynamite the explosion couldn't have more startled the villagers; but the handsome 'wider,' a really beautiful but eccentric lady, given to curious abruptness of speech, picked up her bonnet and, turning to her uncle, said: 'Come on, Jerry, let's leave this ranch,' and then lit out for home in the 'Big Woods.' The groom nearly fainted, and shot out at once to the drug store to revive his broken heart."

A WASHINGTON physician recently said: "It would pay the country well to fit up a gymnasium in the White House and to employ a professional gymnast to go there and spend two hours a day exercising the President. He should make Cleveland strip to the waist, put on the gloves, and do ten minutes of sparring. Then give him the Indian clubs and make him go through a set of motions which would thoroughly exercise every muscle of his arms and chest. The pulley-weights should also be used, and the gymnast should see to it carefully that every part of the President's big frame was brought into vigorous action. Resting spells of five minutes could be taken at the close of each half-hour, and at the end of the two hours a dash with the shower-bath and a good rubbing down would put new life into the man of the White House. This course would reduce his weight, clear his brain, and oil up his joints. He would be a new man, and the country could well afford to pay $10,000 a year to the gymnast for the improvement they would receive in the work done by the President."

THE card-loving class has a new game, which bids fair to pin progressive enclaves to the wall, says an exchange. It is decidedly the jolliest game of cards yet invented. It is called "Hearts," and was brought from New York a few weeks ago. "Hearts" is somewhat similar to whist, except that the essential element of the game is to have no hearts left in your hand or in the tricks that you may have captured at the conclusion of the game. The cards are dealt as in whist; suit must be followed. There is no trump—the idea of each player being to get rid of all the hearts he may have and avoid being compelled to take in any of his neighbors. In the effort to do this consists the fun. Any whist player can see how easy he can be loaded up with his neighbor's hearts if he have long suits of other cards or high cards of any kind. At the conclusion of the playing the player who has been saddled with the fewest hearts rakes in the pot, which is a chip for each heart—or thirteen in all. One beauty of the game is that, unlike whist, one can chatter and talk, and the dreadful struggle to avoid capturing hearts leads to no end of merriment. The game of "Hearts" will soon be a craze—especially among the ladies, for whom it has great fascination.

SENATOR INGALLS' beautiful little six-year-old daughter is a stanch Democrat, and hurrahs for Grover Cleveland, in spite of Republican parents, all through the Presidential campaign. In February the President gave his dinner to the Justices of the Supreme Court. Senator Ingalls was invited to it, with his wife. Justice Field on that occasion told the President about the little Democrat in the Republican stronghold of Senator Ingalls. The President asked Mrs. Ingalls her daughter's name. She told him it was Marion, and next day was amazed to receive an autograph note from the White House signed Grover Cleveland, and a card with the picture of the Executive Mansion and the President's autograph on it. The note said the card and autograph were for "little Marion," and added: "And I hope that, in spite of her good mother, they may serve to confirm her in the Democratic faith." Subsequently Mrs. Ingalls took the child to call on the President, who gave her a private audience, kissed Marion, and gave her, as it was near Valentine's day, the prettiest valentine he had. So, of course, Marion is a more ardent "Cleveland girl" than ever, and she promptly named her pet cat Grover.

A SURPRISING surgical operation is being performed in a New York hospital. Chris. Doll, a German 31 years old, had his arm badly burned. His case is another illustration of the evils of smoking. He fell asleep with a lighted pipe in his mouth. The fire from the bowl set his coat sleeve on fire and his right arm from the wrist to the elbow was terribly burned. He went to the hospital and was very little better than a living skeleton. This was two months ago. Now he is stronger and they are grafting pieces of flesh cut from his side on his wounded arm. These minor operations were performed several days apart and without the use of any other than a local anesthetic. Everything had gone on so well that about ten days ago it was determined to begin the more important part of the operation, which consisted in covering up a large portion of the arm at one time with flesh. The patient was first put under the influence of an anesthetic. Then all the cicatricial tissue upon the upper arm was scraped with a knife until it bled profusely and was entirely raw. While the arm was held away from the body two incisions were made about three inches apart running upward from the small ribs for about seven inches. At the lower end of these incisions a crosscut was made, and then the strip of flesh was dissected up from the ribs, the full length of the incision, making a large flap. This was left united at the upper end. Then the patient's arm was brought close to his side and this loose flap was laid over on the raw flesh of the arm and carefully pressed and fitted into position. When this had been done there was still a large section of the upper back arm remaining uncovered. Two incisions were again made similar to the first two, running up and down the upper portion of the side of the back. The flesh was thick at this point, and permitted a free dissection. Then the two flaps were securely fastened into position by long bands of sticking plaster, while larger bands were run over the lower portion of the arm and around the abdomen and back, and interlaced so that all motion of the arm was stopped. After the whole wound had been covered with an antiseptic dressing, the ether cone was taken off the patient's face and he soon recovered consciousness.

THE history of lake marine furnishes an incident in singular accord with the ingenious theory of the cause of the Oregon disaster. In 1862, on Lake Superior during a dense fog, the steamboat Illinois ran into the schooner Oriole while both were moving in the same direction. The Oriole, which was deeply laden with iron ore, was struck on the port quarter, close to the stern, and sunk so suddenly that every soul on board, save one, was lost. The cook was in some way hurled overboard by the shock of the collision, and, instinctively throwing out his hands, caught hold of a floating object, which proved to be the schooner's yawl, with the davits hanging to her. All that was seen of the schooner from the steamer was her mainboom, which swung over when she was struck. In this instance the captain of the steamer, apprehending that she was seriously injured, headed her for shore, but, upon ascertaining that the damage done was comparatively trivial put about in search of the schooner, not a trace of which could be found. When the fog lifted the cook was rescued by a passing vessel, and his story served to clear up what might have remained another of the unsolved mysteries of the deep.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

A New Formula for Consumption.

(From the Baltimore, Md. American.)
We are in receipt of a number of communications on a topic which just now seems to be receiving the attention of a great many persons. It is the question of the treatment of consumption, and all kinds of diseases, without drugs. Many years ago, in France, it was decided by the leading physicians that nothing was equal to beef as an article of diet in consumption and all ailments which tend to its development. This is now a generally admitted fact. Much difficulty, however, has been experienced in the promulgation of this truth, from the fact that many stomachs cannot digest it. The indigestible quality of all cod-liver oil having led to its being abandoned in medical treatment, it was found that blood taken from an animal just killed, if swallowed, produced marvelous beneficial effects. This found favor with few, however, but the idea has been put into practical operation, and there are in all parts of the world to-day hospitals devoted to the cure of consumption, and kindred diseases, where beef combined with alcohol, in some form, is the chief article of food. Efforts have been made by those interested to keep this simple remedy from the masses, partly from selfish motives, but quite as much from the fact that the wonderful benefits to be received would be doubted by many if they knew in advance what constituted the cure. Another reason was, that its efficacy depends on the presence of spirits free from adulterations and fusel oil. In the past such an article has been difficult to get, and, now, however, it can be obtained. Now, however, we have referred to are from parties who are using a formula of this kind received from the Duffy, Malt Whiskey Co., of Baltimore, Md. The formula, which was prepared specially for them by an eminent German scientist, consists principally of raw beef-steak and ingredients, which any house-keeper can get and mix, combined with their pure malt whiskey, which will, if regularly used, add on an average from 6 to 8 pounds in a month to the weight. On the receipt of a two-cent stamp, the formula will be sent to all parties using their whiskey, under the seal of the company. From the abundance of testimony there can be no question as to its value. This method of treatment is in accordance with the views of the two recognized leading medical authorities of this country, Professor Austin Flint and Professor H. C. Wood. The company has received so many inquiries concerning this formula, that they have found it necessary to add a medical department to their other business facilities.

"Gath" devotes a two-column interview in the Cincinnati Enquirer with Gen. Tom Brady, who is a brother-in-law of Hon. R. C. Bell, of this city. General Brady talks like a statesman and says things about affairs of government in an interesting way.

"For over thirty years Robert Lowry firmly held aloft the banner of democracy. His time and service were ever at the command of his party. Are these services and sacrifices to be rewarded by heaping upon him vile abuse because he holds himself in readiness to further serve his constituency in the halls of congress? We hardly believe that this thing of calling Judge Lowry harsh names will induce any great number of sensible men to vote in favor of his retirement from active public life," says the Ligonier Banner.

The predominating topic in railroad circles is the sale and reorganization of the Wabash. Though it is conceded that the road will remain in the hands of a receiver for some time after the sale is completed, it is agreed that some changes will be made in the management of the road. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat gives these as among the probable officials under the new management: President, J. F. Foy; vice-president and general manager, A. A. Talmage; general passenger and ticket agent, F. Chandler; general superintendent, K. H. Wade.

The police made no arrests last night. City election one week from next Tuesday.

The last legislature having passed an act providing that all new and repaired cars used on Michigan roads after July 1, shall be fitted with self-acting couples, it will probably be obeyed by all the railroad companies in the state. On the Michigan roads more men are killed coupling lumber trains than in any other state in the union.

"Hon. H. G. Thayer celebrated his fifty-second anniversary of his advent into this mundane sphere, Tuesday, the 20th inst. His wife embraced the occasion to present him with a magnificent Knight Templar banner, very artistically made out of the badges of various commanderies which Mr. T. had collected at the several triennial co.-claves of the grand commandery of the United States the past twelve or fifteen years. The work was mostly done by Mrs. Viets, and is a skilful and handsome piece of needle work. Mr. T. has many handsome masonic souvenirs, but none he prizes so highly as his 'crazy quilt banner,'" says the Plymouth Democrat.

A prominent member of the Liquor Dealers association after reading the telegram from Indianapolis in THE SENTINEL, regarding the preparation of the saloon men to meet the liquor question, if it arises in the pending political campaign, intimated a purpose to fight the party which declares itself in favor of high license. If both parties endorse high license, he said that the liquor league (trade protective association), would take no part in the campaign, as their case would probably be hopeless. The convention of whisky men has been called prior to the meeting of either convention, in the hope of influencing the action of one or the other.

The Nickel Plate officials have issued strict orders that under no circumstances shall Lake Shore freight be handled or Lake Shore cars be moved from any point on their lines. To such an extent do they carry this that yesterday they refused to touch or move some perishable freight in the Lake Shore yards, although strongly solicited. They do not propose to become involved if prudence and non-intercourse on their part will avoid it. It is stated that there is a system of espionage in force at all points on the Nickel Plate road instituted by the strikers, and that any attempt on their part to lend a helping hand to the Lake Shore would at once be detected and doubtless provoke retaliation.

VERY SAD. Mrs. Joseph Mayer is Hopelessly Insane and Will be Sent to the State Asylum.

A few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mayer had the brightest prospects in life. Mr. Mayer was a successful man, and his wife, the daughter of Prof. Young, director of the Saengerbund society, was a very handsome woman. Mr. Mayer purchased the picture store, on Calhoun street, near Jefferson, and did a thriving trade. He was suddenly attacked with softening of the brain, and had to relinquish his business. He wasted away until now he is a mental and physical wreck. Mrs. Mayer has been at his bedside constantly, administering to his every want, soothing the declining moments of the man she loved, until her reason was dethroned, and she now is hopelessly insane from the constant worry and strain on her mind.

PEACE!

Is President Cleveland's Masterly Plea.

He Recommends a National Board of Arbitration to Solve Labor Difficulties.

His Message Discussed in the House and a Report Ordered for May 16.

THE LABOR PROBLEM.

President Cleveland Gives His Views at Length.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The president yesterday sent the following message to congress on the labor troubles: To the Senate and House of Representatives: I am so deeply impressed with the importance of thoughtfully meeting the problem which recent events and the present condition have thrust upon us, involving the settlement of the disputes arising between our laboring men and their employers, that I am constrained to recommend to congress legislation upon this serious and pressing subject. Under our form of government the value of labor as an element of national prosperity should be distinctly recognized and the welfare of the laboring man should be regarded as especially entitled to legislative care, in a country which offers to all its citizens the attainment of the highest social and political distinction. Bearing in his hand an indispensable contribution to our growth and progress, the laboring man may well insist, with manly courage and as his right, upon the same recognition from our laws as is accorded to any other citizen. Having a valuable interest in charge his reasonable demands should be met in such a spirit of reconciliation and fairness, as shall produce a contented and patriotic co-operation in the achievement of a grand national destiny. While the real interests of labor are not promoted by a resort to threats and violent manifestations and while those who, under the pretext of an advocacy of the claims of labor, wantonly attack the rights of capital or for reckless purposes, or the love of disorder sow the seeds of discontent, should be quelled, all legislation should be calm. The present condition of the relations between labor and capital are far from satisfactory. This discontent is due, in a large degree, to the grasping, needless action of the employers and the alleged discrimination in favor of capital as an object of government attention. It must also be conceded that the laboring man are not always careful to avoid unexcused and unjustifiable disturbances. Though the importance of better accord between these interests is apparent, we must bear in mind that any effort by the federal government must be greatly limited by constitutional restrictions. There are many grievances which legislation by congress cannot redress and many conditions which cannot by such means be reformed. While something may be done under federal authority to prevent the disturbances which so often arise from disputes between employers and employed, which at times seriously threaten the business interests of the country, in my opinion the proper theory upon which to proceed is that voluntary arbitration is the best means of settling these difficulties. And I suggest that instead of arbitrators chosen in the heat of conflicting claims there be created a commission of labor consisting of three members, who shall be regular officers of the government, charged, among other duties, with the consideration and settlement, when possible, of controversies between employer and employe. Its members, as they gained experience would constantly improve in their ability to deal intelligently and usefully with the questions which might be submitted to them. If arbitrators are chosen for temporary services in each case of dispute which arises, experience and familiarity with much that is involved in the questions, will be lacking. Extreme partiality and bias will be the qualifications sought on either side and frequent complaints of unfairness and partiality will be inevitable. The devolving of this duty upon a federal court, is at least of doubtful propriety. The establishment by federal authority of such a bureau would be a just and sensible recognition of the value of labor and of its right to be represented in the departments of the government. So far as its conciliatory offices had relation to disturbances which interfere with transit and commerce between the states its existence would be justified under the provisions of the constitution, which gives to congress the power to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states. In the frequent disputes between laboring men and their employers, the consequences of which are confined within state limits and threatened domestic violence, the interposition of such a commission, might be tendered upon the application of the legislature or executive of a state, under the constitutional provision which requires the general government to "protect" each of the states "against domestic violence." If such a commission were fairly organized the risk of a loss of popular support and sympathy resulting from a refusal to submit to such an instrumentality would constrain both parties to such disputes, to invoke interference and abide by its decisions. There would also be good reason to hope that the very existence of such a body would invite application to it for advice and counsel frequently resulting in the avoidance of contention and misunderstanding.

If the usefulness of such a commission is doubtful, because it might lack power to enforce its decisions, much encouragement is derived from the conceded good that has been accomplished by the railroad-commissions, which have been organized and which, having little more than advisory power, have exerted a most salutary influence in the settlement of disputes between conflicting interests.

In July, 1884, by a law of congress, a bureau of labor was established and placed in charge of a committee of labor of whom it is required to "collect information on the subject of labor, its relations to capital, the hours of labor, and the earnings of laboring men and women and the means of promoting their material, social and intellectual prosperity." The commission thus already organized might be utilized by the addition of two more commissioners and by supplementing the duties now imposed upon it, by giving such powers and functions as would permit the commissioners to act as arbitrators when necessary, between labor and capital, under such limitations and upon such occasions as should be deemed proper and useful. Power should also be distinctly conferred upon this bureau, to investigate the causes of all disputes as they occur, whether submitted or not for arbitration, so that information may always be at hand to aid legislation on the subject when necessary and desirable. (Signed) GROVER CLEVELAND, Executive Mansion, April 23, 1886.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The senate committee on appropriations has today finished the consideration of the post-office appropriation bill. The only important amendments are the following: Forty thousand dollars are added to the appropriation for increasing special mail facilities to make connection with Cuba. The Frye amendment in substance is adopted, appropriating $380,000 for foreign mail service, and last year's provision that no more than $40,000 shall be used for the extension of free delivery is rescinded.

Among the confirmations yesterday was W. S. Rosecrans for register of the treasury.

HOUSE.

The house met and immediately went into committee of the whole, Wellborn, of Texas, in the chair, on the river and harbor appropriation bill.

For an hour the bill was considered, and some little progress made, and a few moments before noon the committee rose and the house adjourned.

The session of Friday was opened with prayer by the chaplain, and the president's message upon the labor troubles having been read by the clerk, Mr. Springer moved its reference to the committee on labor, with instructions that the committee report on it by bill or otherwise on or before May 15.

Mr. Hammond, of Georgia, thought there was no reason to believe the committee would not act diligently and it was unusual to instruct the committee on such matters. Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, moved to refer the message to a committee of the whole.

This gave rise to a short, but interesting discussion in which the message was warmly commended by Mandell, of Pennsylvania; McCarty, of Kentucky, and others. It was finally referred to the committee on labor, with instructions to report on it on or before May 15.

The officers of the association are Jesse Arnold, North Manchester, president; W. G. Leggett, South Whitley, secretary and treasurer. The next meeting will be held at North Manchester on May 15.

The Disaster at Stry.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

VIENNA, April 23.—The municipal council of Stry has by imperial order been dissolved, upon a charge of culpable official negligence in having failed to provide the town with fire engines. The imperial and municipal committees inspected the buildings in the burned district. Rebuilding will be accomplished by means of a municipal loan guaranteed by the state.

THURMAN, Texas, April 23.—The grand lodge Knights of Pythias has been in session here since Wednesday morning. Yesterday morning, in the Harris hotel, W. Alexander Abey, the retiring grand chancellor of Texas, shot himself with a pistol, the ball entering his breast just left of his heart. It is uncertain whether it was accidental or suicide.

The "Poet Priest" Dead.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

LOUISVILLE, April 23.—Father Abram Ryan, the "poet priest" died last night from brain fever.

GOOD FRIDAY.

The Anniversary of the Crucifixion of the Saviour and its Memories.

This is a solemn day in the Lutheran church, and communicants of that belief suspend business to attend divine worship, consequently the stores of most every Lutheran were closed to-day.

In the Catholic church Good Friday reveals the church expressing in her whole office the deepest compassion and mourning over the death of the Saviour. The altars are bare, the crucifix is covered with a black veil till the prostration, and no masses said or sacrifices offered, except the holy sacrament. None receive the holy communion except the priestly celebrant of the office and the sick in danger of death. On Good Friday prayers are sent up for all stages of men in or out of the church. During the service in the morning, the crucifix, covered, is held up by a priest, who uncovers each of the wounds separately. The image is afterwards placed on a cushion outside the altar, when it receives the osculatory acts of reverence on the part of the faithful.

The last services preliminary to Easter are those of Holy Saturday. The most important, the blessing of the Paschal candle, emblem of the resurrected Christ, of the baptismal font and of the Easter water. The Paschal candle has five grains of frankincense, each grain representing a wound in the divine body. This candle consecration is generally performed by the deacon. The burial of the Lord and his descent into hell are the principal themes engaging the minds of the devout on this day, and present such a contrast to the joys of the day following as to impress the importance of the resurrection upon every worshiper. Anciently the church allowed no masses to be said on that day to impress the deep mourning for the loss of her divine spouse; at present, however, the office and mass of the resurrection which were formerly said at midnight are performed a little before noon.

THE FAR WEST.

Mr. John M. Hench and Thomas Crawford Write Gossipy Letters.

Mr. John M. Hench writes a member of THE SENTINEL staff from Melrose, Montana territory. John has been keeping books and practicing law there, but says he is going to locate at Great Falls, on the Missouri river and Canadian Pacific railroad. It is the coming town, he believes, and proposes to trust his shingle to the breeze there, notwithstanding he has been offered the city editorship of the Butte City Miner. Mr. Hench writes that Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Buiger, near Miss Nellie Angel, live five miles from Melrose, and are prospering nicely. "I heard the other day," says Mr. Hench, "that a mine at Rochester, Montana, in which Mr. Daiger is interested, has developed a very rich 'lead' of silver and will make him a millionaire." John advises latent Fort Wayne capital to look out that way for good investments.

Mr. Thomas Crawford, who recently left this county, writes THE SENTINEL an interesting note, saying that he has staked off a claim in Thomas county, Kansas, near Oakley, his mail station. Mr. Crawford says claims are scarce, as people are constantly after them. Mr. Crawford adds: "I think western Kansas is as fine a looking country as I ever saw. Everything is booming here this spring. You can see the plows going in every direction. Last year there was no plowing done in the county to amount to anything. If Providence blesses us with rain here this year there will be a big crop in Thomas county. I was through five counties of western Kansas. The greatest trouble in this country is that so many poor people have claims and nothing else, but if they stick to it a few years they will all come out right."

Quite a delegation of taxpayers from the Second ward called on Mr. Dennis Monahan to-day, asking him to be a candidate for councilman from the Second ward. Mr. Monahan consents to make the race, and the people of the Second ward have reason to rejoice at this. Mr. Monahan is a representative citizen, one who has built himself up from an humble beginning, and is in sympathy with the best and most economical interest of the people. He will probably have no opposition.

Fred Hollenbeck, a popular man, and a good, agreeable officer, will resign his position as Wabash baggage master May 1. The company refuses to give him sufficient assistance.

TURNER!

He Testifies at Washington To-day.

And Closes His Interesting Testimony by Approving President Cleveland's Message.

The Strikes Detailed at St. Louis, Chicago and Elsewhere Up to 4 O'Clock.

THE K. OF L.

Its Business is Detailed in a Readable Way.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—At to-day's session of the house select committee on the labor difficulties in the southwest, Frederick S. Turner, general secretary and treasurer of the Knights of Labor, was examined. He stated there were twenty-one district assemblies of Knights of Labor in the United States, with about 6,000 local assemblies. In these local assemblies there were from 1,000 to 3,000 members. The Knights of Labor had no political object and did not seek to influence legislation. He had known of no such movement on their part.

Mr. Parker handed to the witness a petition in favor of the unlimited coinage of the standard silver dollar, purporting to be signed by seven hundred local assemblies.

Mr. Turner stated that he had never seen or heard of the petition before, but that the organization did not deny the right of any assembly to petition congress. It was not responsible as a body for the action of any particular assembly. This movement in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver was not a general movement of the Knights of Labor. Mr. Turner went on to describe the interview which he and his colleague, Bailey, had had with Horie in St. Louis. He said Horie's treatment of them was very commendable. Turner said the central lodge had no power to order the strike, but could approve or disapprove. This strike had never been approved. He presumed the Knights would not refuse the return to work if ordered to do so by the grand master. Being questioned on the subject of arbitration Turner said he had read the president's message on that point and thoroughly agreed with it. He believed there should be some fixed tribunal of arbitration, not one raised on the spur of the moment. He would like to see arbitration compulsory.

CONFERENCE HELD.

CHICAGO, April 23.—A conference was held last night at the office of President Newell, of the Lake Shore road, which lasted until nearly midnight. Sheriff Hanchett, P. H. Wright, Commissioner McCarthy, Pliny Smith, Nelson Morris and Grand Master Monaghan, of the Switchmen's Protective association, were present. No information as to proceedings.

A REDUCTION OF WORKING HOURS ASKED. A committee representing 300 or more machinists, at Cicero, on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, waited yesterday on Marvin Hewitt, vice-president and general manager, and presented a petition asking for eight hours a day after May 1, with the present wages. Mr. Hewitt promised a formal answer in a few days.

LAKE SHORE OFFICIALS FIRM.

CHICAGO, April 23.—General Manager Newell and Messrs. Amaden, Wright and Blodgett were closeted in the former's office for upward of two hours this morning, but the precise form of their deliberations were not divulged. The strikers arrested yesterday appeared in court this morning, but hearing was postponed until to-morrow.

PROBABLY SETTLED.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 23.—The

SETTLED.

The Lake Shore Strike at an End.

CHICAGO, April 23.—One of the Lake Shore switchmen declared the Lake Shore officials had agreed on their part to discharge the freight non-union switchmen in the next six months. At 8 o'clock p. m. engine 141 pulled out of the "round" house manned by strikers. There is a general shaking of hands and congratulating among men and everybody is pleased.

PASTEUR IS SUSTAINED.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

VIENNA, April 23.—Dr. Trisch, who was delegated by the Austrian government, to go to Paris to investigate and report upon Mr. Pastern's system of treatment for hydrophobia cases, in a public decree, has advised the medical profession of the Empire to adopt the French method.

AFRAID OF LEAD.

A Bad Spot on the Wabash Road Where Trains are Wrecked.

Roadmaster Houghton, of the Wabash road, has experienced some difficulty in securing men to patrol the track this side of Wabash, where attempts have been made to wreck passenger trains. Four patrolmen were engaged, but each resigned before spending one night on the road, alleging that they were afraid of being shot. The fifth man is plucky and now does duty regularly. Detective Potter, of the Wabash, went down there yesterday, expecting to arrest a man suspected of implication in the crime, but investigation satisfied the officer he was on the wrong trail, and nothing was done.

THE GRAND JURY.

The Indictments Returned and Other Business.

The grand jury reported this afternoon and were discharged. They returned eight indictments. One against Henry Pettit, for assault and battery with intent to rape Sophia Brudi; one against James Meelan and Fred Madden, for petit larceny, and also against Ed Monahan and William Time for riot. On other indictments arrests will follow.

John M. Smith, bound over for bigamy, was discharged, the second marriage having been contracted in Michigan, and hence there was no jurisdiction here.

A HUGGER.

George Platter in Trouble With His Fair Cousin.

George Platter, a Grand Rapids railroad employe, is wanted for kissing Mrs. Jim Weaver, who came here from Garrett to visit Mrs. Maxwell, on South Calhoun street. Platter invited Mrs. Weaver, who is his cousin, to supper last night, and en route to his home, near the east yards, he loved her in a robust way, in fact, she says he proceeded indecently further. In the struggle she lost her bracelets and Platter fled from the men who came to her rescue. She is an extraordinarily pretty woman, and Platter is missing.

The Eel River and Wabash railroads will be organized together, which makes the Indianapolis, Peru and Chicago of special value to it.

HORRID!

A Murderer on a Broken Rope.

He Drops to the Earth, but is Strung up Again to Slowly Strangle to Death.

Millions of Acres of Land Flooded by the Breaking of an Arkansas Levee.

A BAD HANGING.

The Rope Breaks With the Cut-puff.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL. EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 23.—Robert Fowler, the murderer of Miss Lida Barnett, was hung at Morgan Field, Union county, to-day, at half-past 10 o'clock. He confessed his guilt and said he deserved the punishment. When the drop fell the rope broke and he fell to the ground. The fall was five feet and a half and it was supposed his neck was broken. He was raised up, the rope tied to the beam and in twenty minutes he was pronounced dead. His remains were then delivered to his relatives. Five thousand people witnessed the hanging.

A BAD BREAK.

A Levee Breaks and Floods the Country.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL. HELENA, Ark., April 23.—Last night the levee at Old Town, sixteen miles south of here, broke on the Arkansas side, and in a short time a channel was worn away by the escaping waters. There is no hope of closing the break while the water remains at the present depth. Thousands of acres of fertile cotton lands are already overflowed. It is estimated that a million acres will be submerged before the levee can be repaired.

An Awful Charge.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL. VAN WERT, Ohio, April 23.—Captain O. M. Boland was arrested on a warrant sworn out by his son and daughter, charging him with incest with his daughter. Heretofore the captain has borne an unblemished reputation, is captain of a militia company at this place, and was a candidate for marshal at the democratic convention here this spring. He will have an examination to-day, and there are a number who doubt the verity of the charges.

Liberty Enlightens the World.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL. NEW YORK, April 23.—The last stone in the pedestal on Bedloe's Island for Bartholdi's colossal statue of liberty, enlightening the world, was laid yesterday afternoon. The statue will be unveiled September 8, the anniversary day, when the representatives of France, England, Spain and the United States signed a treaty of peace, recognizing the United States as an independent nation.

On the Raise.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL. NEW YORK, April 23.—The strike of the workmen in sugar refineries has boomed prices. Granulated sugar was quoted at 6 1/2 Saturday; yesterday it reached 7 1/2. The stock of refined sugar on hand amounts practically to nothing.

Business Failures.

Rev. Father Twigg, who died Wednesday at the home of his parents in Cincinnati, will be buried from the Cathedral of that city next Tuesday at 9 o'clock. Right Rev. Bishop Dwenger and a number of clergy from the Fort Wayne diocese will attend the funeral.

"Gath" devotes a two-column interview in the Cincinnati Enquirer with Gen. Tom Brady, who is a brother-in-law of Hon. R. C. Bell, of this city. General Brady talks like a statesman and says things about affairs of government in an interesting way.

"For over thirty years Robert Lowry firmly held aloft the banner of democracy. His time and service were ever at the command of his party. Are these services and sacrifices to be rewarded by heaping upon him vile abuse because he holds himself in readiness to further serve his constituency in the halls of congress? We hardly believe that this thing of calling Judge Lowry a burlesque names will induce any great number of sensible men to vote in favor of his retirement from active public life," says the Tigonier Banner.

The predominating topic in railroad circles is the sale and reorganization of the Wabash. Though it is conceded that the road will remain in the hands of a receiver for some time after the sale is completed, it is agreed that some changes will be made in the management of the road. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat gives these as among the probable officials under the new management: President, J. F. Foy; vice-president and general manager, A. A. Talmage; general passenger and ticket agent, F. Chandler; general superintendent, K. H. Wade.

The police made no arrests last night. City election one week from next Tuesday.
Mrs. Dr. T. J. Dills is visiting relatives at Bluffton.
The Bass Foundry is closed to-day to observe Good Friday.
About fifteen members of the Bicycle club made a run last night.
The Staats Zeitung suspended publication to-day to observe Good Friday.
It will soon be mushroom time. A warm rain and then—look a little out for them.

The last legislature having passed an act providing that all new and repaired cars used on Michigan roads after July 1, shall be fitted with self-wetting couples, it will probably be obeyed by all the railroad companies in the state. Mr. J. M. Matheany and P. S. O'Rourke attended a meeting at Lansing Wednesday and the adoption of some device was considered. On the Michigan roads more men are killed coupling lumber trains than in any other state in the union.

There is considerable interest manifested in the Odd Fellows' celebration at Wabash, next Monday, since the Wabash people concluded to run a train from Fort Wayne. "Hon. H. G. Thayer celebrated his fifty-second anniversary of his advent into this mundane sphere, Tuesday, the 20th inst. His wife embraced the occasion to present him with a magnificent Knight Templar banner, very artistically made out of the badges of various commanderies which Mr. T. had collected at the several triennial conclaves of the grand commandery of the United States the past twelve or fifteen years. The work was mostly done by Mrs. Vieta, and is a skilful and handsome piece of needle work. Mr. T. has many handsome masonic souvenirs, but none he prizes so highly as this 'cerazy quilt banner,'" says the Plymouth Democrat.

A prominent member of the Liquor Dealers' association after reading the telegram from Indianapolis in THE SENTINEL, regarding the preparation of the saloon men to meet the liquor question, if it arises in the pending political campaign, intimated a purpose to fight the party which declares itself in favor of high license. If both parties endorse high license, he said that the liquor league (trade protective association), would take no part in the campaign, as their case would probably be hopeless. The convention of whisky men has been called prior to the meeting of either convention, in the hope of influencing the action of one or the other.

The Nickel Plate officials have issued strict orders that under no circumstances shall Lake Shore freight be handled or Lake Shore cars be moved from any point on their line. To such an extent do they carry this that yesterday they refused to touch or move some perishable freight in the Lake Shore yards, although strongly solicited. They do not propose to become involved if prudence and non-intercourse on their part will avoid it. It is stated that there is a system of espionage in force at all points on the Nickel Plate road instituted by the strikers, and that any attempt on their part to lend a helping hand to the Lake Shore would at once be detected and doubtless provoke retaliation.

VERY SAD.
Mrs. Joseph Mayer is Hopelessly Insane and Will be Sent to the State Asylum.

A few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mayer had the brightest prospects in life. Mr. Mayer was a successful man, and his wife, the daughter of Prof. Young, director of the Saengerbund society, was a very handsome woman. Mr. Mayer purchased the picture store, on Calhoun street, near Jefferson, and did a thriving trade. He was suddenly attacked with softening of the brain, and had to relinquish his business. He wasted away until now he is a mental and physical wreck. Mrs. Mayer has been at his bedside constantly, administering to his every want, soothing the declining moments of the man she loved, until her reason was delirious, and she now is hopelessly insane from the constant worry and strain on her mind.
